Artists often mention locations or landmarks in their music that we have never heard about. Most of the time we hear it and think nothing of it. But have you ever wondered where these locations are? Why would somebody make a song about some place nobody has heard of?

The point of this mash up is to show the location artist mentioned in the song. It also gives a little background information about the location. In knowing the location or landmark, we get exposed to why somebody would make a song about a particular location. This mash up exposes the cultural and geographical aspects of the song that make it so interesting.
